COURSE MATERIALS

Textbook (required): Schiller and Gebhardt: The Macro Economy Today, 16th edition
Connect is where you will read your textbook and complete assignments. You will access Connect through our course website, Canvas.

Purchase options: Day "1" Digital Access in Canvas Course. Keep the cost of your course materials as low as possible and access even after they have completed the activity or after the due date has passed. Credit is awarded only when completely by the due date. I will count your SmartBook scores so you can use these judiciously. SmartBook assignments are due by Friday midnight of each module. I highly encourage you to start them earlier in the week. Budget about 30 minutes per Smart Book assignment. You can do these over multiple days as well.

MODULE ASSIGNMENTS Each module there is a 60 problem set, discussion, or data exercise (or a combination thereof) assignment. There will be twelve (12) Assignments in total, and the lowest of these will be dropped from your final grade calculation. Budget around 2 hours per module assessment.

PROBLEM SETS Problem sets will include a combination of multiple choice, calculations, and short answer questions and will be open book and open notes. Take these seriously to prepare for exams. Problem Sets are due Sunday midnight and credit is awarded only when completed by the due date.

Data exercises will require you to manipulate and interpret data related to economic issues. These data exercises will be accessed through Canvas, Econ Low Down or FRED. The exercises are due by Sunday midnight.

Discussions will occur asynchronously; I will post a discussion question and respond to the questions at your convenience prior to the due date. The discussion post will need to be completed by Friday midnight and peer evaluation will be due Sunday midnight. 7 ( r ) - 5 .

2. At the University Testing Center on campus in Boulder, CO. There may be a cost for using the testing center. This option is only available during regular business hours.

PREFERRED STUDENT NAMES AND PRONOUNS

CU Boulder recognizes that students' legal information does not always align with how they identify. Students may update their preferred names and pronouns via the student portal; those preferred names and pronouns are listed on instructors' class rosters. In the absence of such updates, the name that appears on the class roster is the student's legal name.

HONOR CODE

All students enrolled in a University of Colorado Boulder course are responsible for knowing and adhering to the Honor Code. Violations of the policy may include plagiarism, cheating, fabrication, lying, unauthorized access to academic materials, clicker fraud, submitting the same or similar work in more than one course without permission from all course instructors involved, and aiding academic dishonesty. All incidents of academic misconduct will be reported to the Honor Code Office (@colorado.edu, 303.492.5550). Students found responsible for violating the academic integrity policy will be subject to nonacademic sanctions. Consider the basis for academic sanctions from the faculty member. Additional information regarding the Honor Code academic integrity policy can be found at the Honor Code Office website.

Plagiarism is a form of academic dishonesty. Plagiarism is defined as the use of another's ideas or words without appropriate acknowledgment. Examples of plagiarism include failing to use quotation marks when directly quoting from a source; failing to document distinctive ideas from a source; fabricating or inventing sources; and copying information from the Internet.

SEXUAL MISCONDUCT, DISCRIMINATION

contact the appropriate Help desk immediately, and then notify the instructor with you to ensure that your online learning experience is not hampered by technical issues. However, I can only help you if you bring the matter to my attention right away.
