Economics 4626
Syllabus and schedule
11 January 2023

Welcome! I am Prof. Jeffrey S. Zax. This is Economics 4626,
The Economics of Inequality and Discrimination.

Course description:

The purpose of this course is to investigate the economic causes of inequality and discrimination, and to discuss the implications of these causes for public policy.

and midterm examinations. You should expect every class, including the first class, to occupy the entire scheduled time. You should expect to attend every class. If you miss any of the first three classes, on January 17, 19 and 24, without an approved excuse, you will be dropped from the course.

I will hold regular office hours between 10:30 a.m. and 12:00 p.m. on Tuesdays and 12:30p.m.-2:00p.m. on Wednesdays in my office, Economics 111 and via Zoom (<https://cuboulder.zoom.us/my/jeffreyzax>). Appointments may be made for meetings at other times, if these are inconvenient. Course information will be posted on Canvas as needed. Notifications will be posted there as well, or sent via Canvas email or campus email. It is your responsibility to monitor both.

Course prerequisites:

This course requires previous completion of Economics 3070, Intermediate Microeconomic Theory, or its equivalent. This prerequisite will be enforced. Anyone uncertain with regard to their preparation should consult with me immediately.

This course requires good auditory comprehension in the English language. Most of the important course material is presented verbally. The ability to follow the discussion is essential for successful course completion.

This course requires good reading comprehension in the English language. The remaining course material is presented in journal articles that are written for a general but well-prepared audience. While these articles are relatively short, they are also relatively dense. The ability to understand their content and extract what is most important is essential.

Finally, the ability to write effectively in the English language is very important. All of the graded elements of the course require original composition. Most of it is in the form of short responses of up to six sentences. However, one three-page and one five-page essay are also required.

Course requirements:

Performance in this course will be judged on the basis of five graded assignments. Three of the assignments are examinations. They will ordinarily consist of short essay questions of These examinations will consist of short answer essay questions. The first midterm examination will address the material in lectures 2 through 8. The second midterm examination will address the material in lectures 9 through 21.

Papers

Two graded assignments are papers. Each will analyze the issues presented in a case from the Harvard Business School, based on our course material. Both papers must be type-written, double-spaced, with conventional margins. Papers that exceed the maximum lengths, either in physical length or because of compressed formats, will be penalized.

These papers must be submitted electronically through the course Canvas website in the Adobe .pdf format. Make sure that you arrange to convert your papers to .pdf format before the deadline for submission. Speak with me in advance if you anticipate difficulty with this requirement.

The first term paper is a three-page discussion of Inequality and Globalization, Harvard Business School Product No. 705040-PDF-ENG. It will be due on 28 February unless class progress deviates significantly from expectations. It will be worth 20 points, or 6.6% of the course total.

The second paper is a five-page discussion of Brazil Under Lula: Off the Yellow BRIC Road, Harvard Business School Product No. 707031-PDF_ENG. It will be due on 25 April unless class progress deviates significantly from expectations. It will be worth 50 points, or 16.7% of the course total.

Papers that are submitted after the associated deadline without my approval will be assessed a penalty of one point for each day or partial day beyond the deadline. Papers submitted more than ten days late without my approval will receive a score of zero. If you anticipate difficulty meeting either of these deadlines, discuss your situation with me in advance.

Students may cooperate with each other in preliminary analysis of the cases. However, each student must submit their own paper, in their own words. If a paper shares any substantial common text with any other source, the submitting student will receive the grade of "F" for the course and will be reported to the Honor Code Council for violating our standards of academic integrity.

Both cases may be purchased at <https://hbsp.harvard.edu/import/987910>. You will need to register at the website in order to obtain access. It will provide you with .pdf copies of the cases which you can save and print. The cases each cost $4.25.

All students must adhere strictly to all standards of academic integrity. This requires that you submit papers that consist largely of your own words, with proper attribution for text that originates from any other source. All methods of composition that rely in any way on artificial intelligence are prohibited. If I suspect that artificial intelligence has been employed in the composition of any paper, it will be the student's responsibility to demonstrate the contrary in order to avoid sanctions.

Any act of academic dishonesty will result in a grade of "F" for the course and referral to the Honor Code Office for possible non-academic sanctions. Information regarding the Honor Code academic integrity policy can be found at the Honor Code Office website.
