

to help prepare for law school. She states, "Jewish Studies helped me find my passion

LGBT activist since her return there in 1991, a decade after her immigration to the United States with her parents. Following a slew of homophobic legislation adopted by Russia's parliament and signed by Putin over the course of the past year, Gessen re-immigrated to the US with her family in December 2013.

